

Campfire Song

We were sitting by the fire outside that we made that night
At your father's family farm
When I pulled you close told you scary ghost stories
Stood hair up on your arms
We sat and looked at stars and listened to the frogs
Singing ribbit with the crickets on down to our campfire song

Kissing, kissing, hoping the night would never end
Our shadows dancing to the flames, how we can bend
To the beat of the fire and the rhythm of the sky
With the moon so bright I want this night
Forever, forever, forever
Forever, forever, forever

Not a soul around and the only sound
The crackle in the fire and the howl in the wind through the trees
And the beat of this summer night
The sound of your lips against mine

Heavy breathing, hoping the night would never end
If I grow old right here with you, I'd be content
With the beat of your body and rhythm of your eyes
With the fire inside I want this night for

Not a soul around and the only sound
The crackle in the fire and the howl in the wind through the trees
Like a river flowing into me
Shiver, shiver from the breeze

We were sitting by the fire outside that we made that night
At your father's family farm
When you held me close, whispered those three little words
Stood hair up on my arms
We sat and looked at stars and listened to the frogs
Singing ribbit with the crickets on down to our campfire

Not a soul around
But the love we found
All the nature and the wilderness in you and me
I feel like I'm finally at peace
